

Alexander Armstrong

Comedian, Actor and Television Presenter

"He's one of Britain's most familiar faces on comedy shows"

Alexander Armstrong, also known as Xander, is a multi-talented British entertainer known for his versatility across various platforms. With a career spanning decade, he has established himself as a prominent figure in the entertainment industry, captivating audiences with his wit, charm, and engaging persona.

TOPICS:

- Comedy
- Host and Awards
- Presenter
- After Dinner
- Life in the Spotlight

LANGUAGES:

He presents in English.

PUBLICATIONS:

- 2015 Land of the Midnight Sun: My Arctic Adventures
- 2014 The Very Pointless Quiz Book
- 2013 The 100 Most Pointless Things in the World

IN DETAIL:

Armstrong's comedic prowess first gained widespread recognition through his collaboration with Ben Miller. Together, they formed the comedy duo Armstrong and Miller, entertaining audiences with their sketch comedy series "The Armstrong and Miller Show," which aired on various platforms including BBC One. He has also appeared in numerous television dramas, sitcoms, and films, demonstrating his versatility as a performer. Notable acting credits include roles in "Life Begins," "Doctor Who," "The Catherine Tate Show," and the film "Match Point". He hosts the quiz show "Pointless," which has become a staple of British television and earned him widespread acclaim as a presenter.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

Alexander Armstrong brings a unique blend of humour, intelligence, and warmth to his presentations. Whether entertaining audiences with comedic anecdotes, sharing insights into the entertainment industry, or engaging in thought-provoking discussions, he captivates them with his eloquence and charm.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

Alexander is not only a talented comedian, actor, and television presenter but also a captivating speaker who leaves a lasting impression on audiences with his wit, charisma, and genuine passion for entertainment.