

Micky Flanagan is best known for presenting Micky Flanagan: What Chance Change? for Radio 4. With more than 15 years of seasoned expertise, he's established himself as a prominent figure in the industry. His credentials include appearances on esteemed programs like Mock the Week: A League of Their Own, 8 Out of 10 Cats, Michael McIntyre's Comedy Roadshow, and I Love My Country.

TOPICS:

- Comedy
- Stand-Up
- Compere
- After Dinner

LANGUAGES:

He presents in English.

IN DETAIL:

Renowned for his compelling stand-up comedy, Micky has graced the stage numerous times on Live at the Apollo, Stand Up for the Week, and Royal Variety Performance. His versatility extends to television, where he's guest-starred on The Chase, The Mad Bad Ad Show, The Graham Norton Show, and Was It Something I Said? With an unparalleled depth of industry knowledge and experience, Micky stands as a luminary in his field. His 'If Ever We Needed It...' 2023 UK tour marked another milestone in his career. He has been described by The Guardian as "the country's most popular comic, by some measure, its most popular entertainer".

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

Micky Flanagan draws on his East End background as he ruthlessly deconstructs the Cockney Myth with razor sharp observational wit. He tells a comic tale of a working class upbringing, where alphabet spaghetti is a luxury. His chatty, effervescent delivery engages the most reticent of rooms.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

His delivery is spot on, he's a hilarious comedian with the envious ability to be able to just stand and say nothing and people are still crying with laughter.